

PRIMARY LAW'S MANY DEFECTS

Madison Discusses The Demerits Of The Law Which Was Used On Tuesday Last.

HEAR RUMOR OF LA FOLLETTE PLAN

Said That Stephenson's Managers Have Majority Of The Candidates For Assembly Committed On Question Of Vote.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 4.—The primary election of Tuesday disclosed defects of the Wisconsin nominating law with which the next legislature will doubtless wrestle. One is the effect which alphabetical order on the ticket has upon the vote. Two years ago, after the first state-wide primary election had been held, it was found that all the nominations on the republican state ticket had gone to the candidates whose names appeared first on the ticket by reason of the place their names took alphabetically.

An effort was made to amend this matter by an amendment providing for a better arrangement of candidates' names according to the alphabet. But the opposition declared that this was a reflection on the intelligence of voters, and the bill failed in the legislature.

In the present campaign the victory of Senator Stephenson seemed to do away with the alphabetical objection, for he was first on the ticket of all the senatorial candidates. However, it is believed that few voters who came to the polls lacked information on the senatorial candidates and therefore were not largely affected by that contest through arrangement of names on the ticket.

But with other contests it was different. Just now there is unlimited anxiety in the camp of insurance Commissioner Bradley for the returns now in show him to be running behind J. E. Abbott of Madison, whose name was first on the ticket in the contest for the nomination for commissioner of insurance.

It seems beyond question that voters were attracted to the polls by the senatorial contest, and that when they got down the ticket to the fight for the insurance office nomination they were uninformed and many hundreds of them voted for the first man, Abbott, not knowing either of the two candidates. This happened in the county districts, where it was to be expected that Mr. Bradley would be strongest.

Two years ago it was charged that Mr. Bradley was the beneficiary of the alphabetical arrangement, his name coming first, but this time he suffered. Mr. Abbott claims he is nominated by nearly 3,000 votes over Bradley. The latter is hoping that complete returns will more than wipe out the lead which Abbott has, 1,211, on incomplete returns from about two-thirds of the counties.

A great deal of fragmentary voting was done in the recent primary. Here, aside from the fight for the senatorship, the main contests were for assessor and sheriff nominations. Election officials say that hundreds of ballots were found which had only one or two crosses marked upon them, showing that the voters came to express themselves on only one or two of the main contests.

While a good deal of criticism and disgust is heard against the primary election law, and amendments will surely be proposed in the next legislature, it is generally admitted that the direct nominating system has come to stay a long time and will not soon be wiped off the statute books.

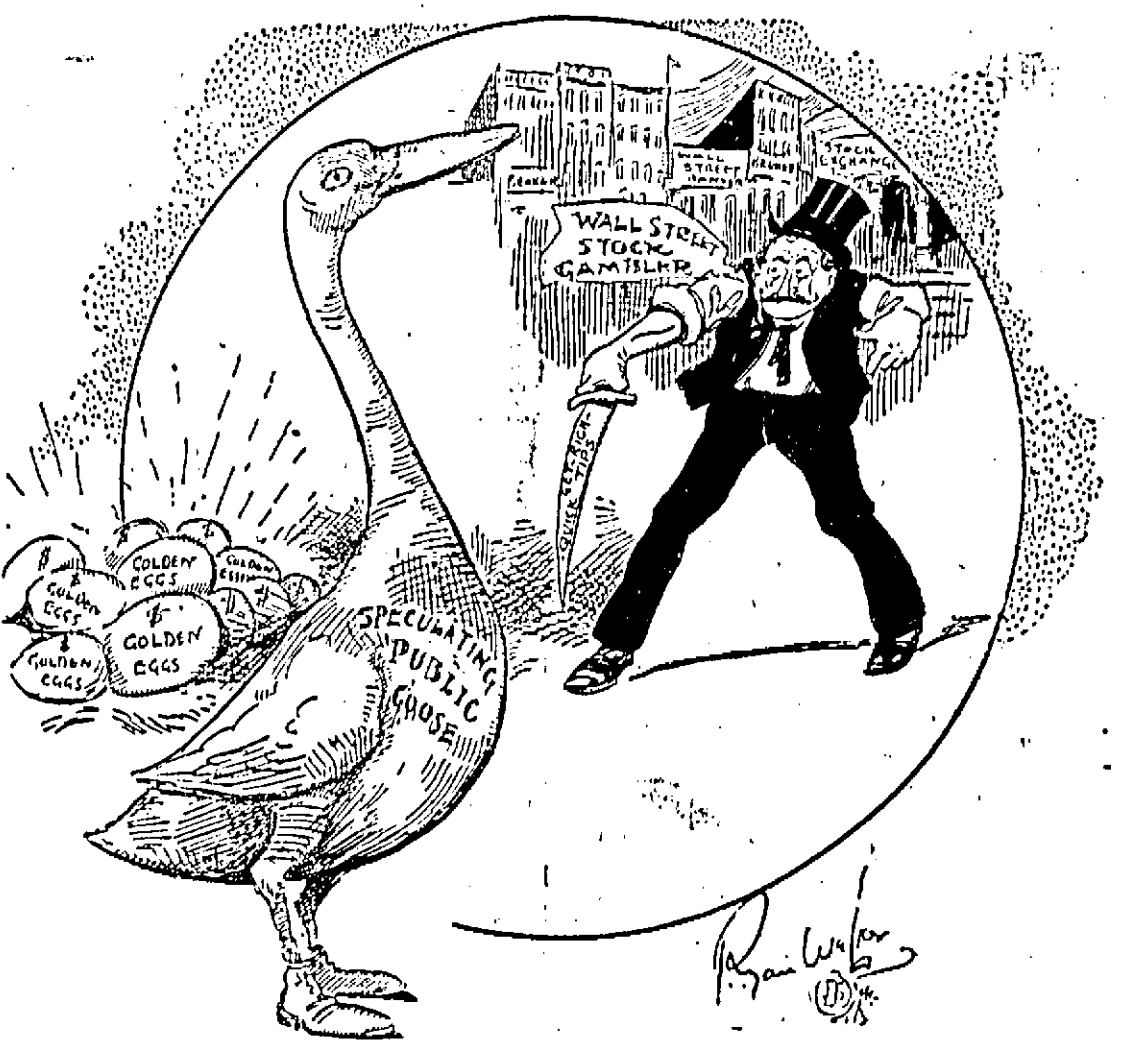

A report has become current here that Senator La Follette will shortly hold a conference of trusted lieutenants at his Apple Bluff home to canvas the situation with respect to the possibility of bringing about the defeat of Senator Stephenson in the legislature. Friends of the younger senator deny this and declare that as far as they are able to judge, Senator Stephenson is certain of an uncontested reelection when the legislature meets next January.

"They declare that the 'old man' overlooked no bet and that he saw to it that candidates favorable to him were nominated for the legislature in a considerable number of cases. A good many legislative candidates, in order to relieve themselves of the necessity of taking sides in the senatorial contest, declared in the campaign that if elected they would support the candidate nominated in the primaries for United States senator."

This had pleased a good many members, and with respect to the La Follette followers, it is inconceivable that they would at the first opportunity attempt to repudiate the result of their own system of making a senatorial nomination.

In view of the defeat of Speaker Elcom for re-nomination, regret is heard that Captain Pliny Norcross is not to return from the Janesville district, for he would be a strong availability for the speakership.

Among those most persistently mentioned for the leadership of the next assembly are E. W. Lefroy of Marinette, L. H. Haneroff of Richland Center, C. E. Estabrook of Milwaukee and M. J. Cleary of Blanchardville. It is also said that C. A. Ingram of Poplar, chairman of the judiciary committee of the last assembly, will probably be the candidate of the La Follette people for the speakership.

TO OPEN CAMPAIGN IN BUCKEYE STATE

Republicans of Ohio will hold a big Rally at Youngstown Tomorrow—Gov. Hughes to Speak.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Youngstown, O., Sept. 4.—Youngstown is preparing to entertain an immense crowd tomorrow on the occasion of the opening of the republican state campaign. The rally will be more than a mere state affair. It will practically mark the opening of the republican campaign for the whole country, and the speech of Governor Hughes of New York, which will be the principal feature, has been written with that fact in view.

Advices have been received which indicate a large attendance of visitors from every nook and corner of the state. Marching clubs and bands are coming from Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland, Toledo and other cities. The prominence of the speakers is expected to draw a large crowd from all the country that can be reached by the interurban lines, and this comprises nearly the whole of the northern and eastern portions of Ohio.

The orators of the day will be Governor Andrew L. Harris, who is a candidate for reelection; Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York and Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana. Governor Harris will speak on state issues and Governor Hughes and Senator Beveridge will discuss national issues.

FORT TEAM PLAYED A VERY POOR GAME

The Game at the Footville Tournament Yesterday Proves a Disappointment—Players Were Too Young.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Footville, Sept. 4.—Yesterday, which was the last day of the Baseball Tournament which had been held here, the game which was played by the Footville and the Port Atkinson players proved to be the poorest of the entire tournament as the Port Atkinson players were nothing but young boys and their work was not good. The best team in Port Atkinson was what the Footville men had expected a game with and for which they had signed the contract. The score of the game was 20 to 2 in favor of Footville. About six or seven hundred people attended the game and it was a disappointment to all. The best play ever made by the Footville team was made yesterday afternoon. It was a triple play. Footville was in the field and Port Atkinson at bat, with the bases full. The play was from Fullman, pitcher, to R. Bronghton, third base; from third to Parker, first base; to H. Bronghton, catcher, and from catcher back to pitcher. Next Friday, the 11th, the Footville team will go to Monroe to play the Shullsburg team at the Monroe Fair.

In the other sports yesterday Cavemough of Broadhead won in the men's throwing contest and Miss Daisy Silverthorn in the girls' contest. In the men's race Parker Banta was the winner and Miss Gladys Hawk took the honors of the girls' race.

The Oxfordville Band furnished music yesterday, which was much appreciated by the crowd.

FLORAL BABY CAB PARADE AT FAIR

Infants and Vehicles Competed for Prizes at Evansville This Morning—Red Sox Defeated.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 4.—Another large crowd turned out for the closing festivities of the Evansville county fair today. A fine baseball game and a floral baby-cab parade were the features of the forenoon. The game between the Beloit White Sox and the Evansville Red Sox stood 4 to 3 in favor of Beloit at the beginning of the last inning, but the Blue City boys succeeded in getting in 3 more runs in the ninth, making the final score 7 to 3. A home-run by Porter, the most spectacular element in the contest. Partisans of both teams were on hand in large numbers and excitement was kept at a high notch until the finish.

The floral parade of baby cabs took place on the racetrack at 10 o'clock. Male spectators of the baseball game so effectively shut off the view that the ladies were unable to see and the game had to be stopped for a time. Profound had been hung up for babies in two classes, the first including infants under one year of age and the second, children over one year of age but under two. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blunt's little boy received the first award in the first class, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roberts' child the second. In the second class Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Covert's child won the first premium and Ray and Mrs. J. L. Webster's child, second premium.

The first and second premiums for the most tastefully decorated baby-cabs were awarded to Mrs. B. F. Pratt and Mrs. Henry Porter. The judges in the baby competition were Mrs. L. C. Brewer of Janesville and the Mesdames John Collins and Frank Tupper of Evansville.

It is believed that the totals of attendance and the financial aspects of this year's fair will show up better than ever before.

SHOOTING MATCHES BEGIN ON THE SEA GIRT RANGES

Cuba And The Philippines As Well As Nearly All The States Are Represented At New Jersey Meet.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Sea Girt, N. J., Sept. 4.—Of scarcely less importance to the military world than the great national matches recently held at Camp Perry, are those which began on the Sea Girt ranges today and will continue through the whole of next week. In addition to the annual matches of the New Jersey Rifle association, those of the New York state rifle association and the United States Revolver association are to be held at the same time. The Sea Girt range has always been a Mecca for ambitious marksmen, and this year a programme has been arranged which for richness and attractiveness compares favorably with any ever shot.

Many of the teams that recently completed at Camp Perry are here to take part in the various matches. Cuba and the Philippines, in addition to nearly all the states, are represented. For the first time the rifles with which the army and the national guard were recently equipped, together with the new United States ammunition, will be used in contests in this country, and the results will be of importance in determining their value.

The most important match will be for the Dryden trophy, a magnificent piece of bronzes, presented by ex-Senator Dryden, to be completed by teams of eight, from the same branches of the military service eligible to the national trophy match. It is shot at 200, 300 and 400 yards. The trophy carries with it cash prizes of from $50 to $150. The Inverness trophy, presented by Senator Briggs of New Jersey, will be shot at the same distances by teams of six. With this trophy goes a medal to each man on the winning team, with cash prizes to the second, third and fourth teams.

The matches of the New York state Rifle association are headed by the company team match at 200, 300 and 400 yards, open to teams of four. Another leading event will be the Thurston match, at 300 and 500 yards, open to everybody.

The programme of the United States Revolver association comprises four great matches. The first is the championship match for any revolver, which carries with it the revolver championship of the United States, together with the championship cup. The second is the any pistol championship match, also for a silver cup and the pistol championship. The third is the military revolver championship match, which carries the title of champion, and the fourth is the military record match, with unlimited entries. All of these matches are regarded as very difficult, as they require as many as fifty shots and at fifty yards' distance.

WASHINGTON STATE WILL HOLD ITS FIRST PRIMARY

Voters Will Register Their Choice For All Offices From U. S. Senator Down On Tuesday Next.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

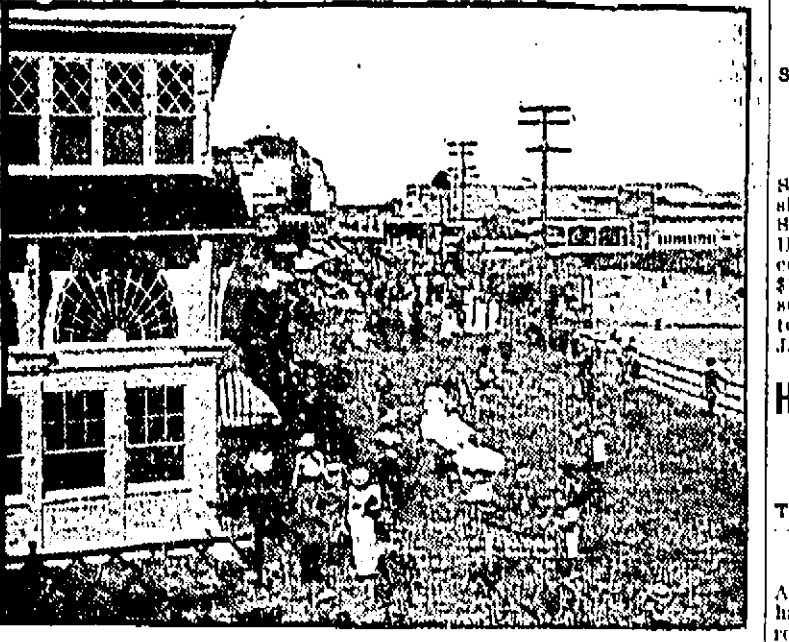

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 4.—One of the most interesting and exciting political campaigns in the history of the state of Washington will virtually come to an end next Tuesday with the general primary. As Washington is republican by a large majority the nomination of the republican candidates for office is regarded as equivalent to election.

The direct primary next week will be the first ever held in this state. It will include every office—state, county, judicial and congressional, everything from United States senator and governor down to the county commissioners and councilmen of the justice courts. Practically all of the candidates for the legislature have signed a pledge to vote for the man receiving the highest number of votes for United States senator. Advocates of the direct primary are much pleased with these pledges. It was predicted by the old machine politicians, and many who opposed the law, that scores of candidates would refuse to give the pledge, on the ground that the lesson Oregon would show the people it was wrong. However, this belief has not been held by the candidates, and as there is no possible chance of the Oregon situation being repeated in this state, the successor to Senator Leach Anthony will be named by the legislature in obedience to the will of the people as expressed by their votes next Tuesday.

There are three republican aspirants for the senatorship, the present incumbent, Levi Anthony, Congressman Wesley L. Jones of North Yakima and Judge William H. Spell of Tacoma. Anthony is a wealthy banker and owner of farm lands, living at Walla Walla. Congressman Jones is a lawyer and a comparatively poor man, having little beyond his salary. Anthony and Jones are regarded as the two leading candidates, with many astute politicians predicting the overthrow of Anthony and the election of Jones. The candidacy of Judge Spell was an eleventh hour entry in the race and though it has complicated the situation it is not expected to affect the result materially.

George F. Cotterill and M. M. Gordon, both of Seattle, are the candidates of the democratic party for the senatorship.

The republican race for the governorship is the most interesting contest to be decided at the primary. There are eight republican candidates, the

VIEW OF THE BOARD WALK AT ATLANTIC CITY, SHOWING RESORTS WHICH GOVERNOR FORT IS GOING TO CLOSE BY MARTIAL LAWS IF THE LOCAL AUTHORITIES DO NOT ACT.

Atlantic City, N. J., Governor Fort is in earnest. His has been aroused by the alleged laxity of the local authorities in enforcing the excise laws. The governor has delivered his ultimatum and states that if the saloons and other resorts are not absolutely closed on Sunday in accordance with the state's statutes he will call a special session of the legislature which, he feels confident, will empower him to send the state national guards to this popular resort and put it under martial law. The local saloon men and resort keepers are inclined to take the matter lightly, many claiming that it is out of the jurisdiction of Governor Fort to enforce local laws.

The contention of the local authorities is that 95 per cent of the fixed and transient residents of this city do not want a closed town. They claim it would seriously interfere with business and injure the resort's popularity.

The question involved is not so much whether the saloons shall be closed or the city left wide open, but rather whether local authorities can interpret the state laws to suit the majority in any locality. This problem

HORSE THIEVES OF BELOIT CAPTURED

Three Boys of Ages Ranging from 14 to 17 Were Guilty Parties—
Sent to Reformatory of the Beloit Anti-Horse Thief Association which had people on the lookout on every road within a radius of 50 miles, the parties guilty of the theft of two ponies and a light wagon and harness from Ankla & Green's barn and a pony, saddle, and bridle from Harry A. Adams' barn. Wednesday night, were run down and captured near Rockton last evening. They proved to be a trio of youths—Orval and James Churchill, 11 and 17 years old respectively, and sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Churchill of this city, and Otto Schultz, aged 15, a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Schultz. When arrested in court this morning, the boys disavowed any intent of keeping the stolen property, averring that they had been reading some wild west novels and were eager for a day or two of adventure with borrowed property. They were committed to the Waubesa Industrial school until they shall reach the age of 21 years.

Davine Had Big "Roll": Patrick Davine was arrested while in an intoxicated condition last evening and taken to the police station where a search revealed the tidy sum of $10.15 on his person. He pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness in municipal court this morning and paid a fine and costs amounting to $5.10. A fine and costs of $4.10 was levied against Thomas Dougherty for the same offense but he was given until Sept. 19 to get the money.

FIRE DEPARTMENT'S "GAME" HORSE DEAD

"The Rat," dying but faithful to the last, tried to respond to alarm just before end game.

"The Rat," high horse on the big bay team which drew the fire department's No. 2 wagon, died Monday night of stopping of the bowels, and Patrick Gallagher, the East Side station driver, who went without his dinner and supper that day in his devoted task of saving the dying steed, cannot be comforted. The animal was taken violently ill about eleven o'clock in the morning and was lying on an improvised bed of straw in the rear of the station when an alarm was sounded at six o'clock that evening. Though the end was near, the faithful creature got to his feet and staggered to be forcibly prevented from staggering to his place before the wagon.

The story of "The Rat" is the history of the best horse that ever stood in the fire department's stalls. He was raised by Jerry Humphert at Walwick, Wis., a town located about 11 miles from Mineral Point. Humphert sold the equine to Nicholas Graber of Mineral Point and Chief Klein made the purchase from the latter in August, 1906, paying $170, the smallest sum paid for a good animal in recent years. At that time "The Rat" was four years old and apparently untamable. An effort had been made to break him to single and double harness when he was three years old but the trainers had been unable to master him. While one of these attempts was in progress he ran away with an empty wagon, traversing the 11 intervening miles between Mineral Point and his old stamping ground at Walwick. As a last resort the owner tried to "crack" him for a running horse. He could go a half mile in 54, which was a trifle too slow for first money. Moreover, no one could control him on the track and his repeated and more or less successful efforts to "throw the fence" won for him the sobriquet of "The Hurdler."

While a test of his wind was being made for Chief Klein, he ran away with the driver. The same thing happened again when he had been rounded up for a second exhibition and "two corned farmers" were on the job. No. 2 tried to head wind up with "The Rat" almost hopelessly tangled up in a barbed-wire fence. "I don't s'pose you want him, after this," said the owner, mournfully. "On the contrary," retorted the Chief, "I will take him as soon as you can get the present circumstances removed."

That was the last time the horse ever ran away. The Janesville trainers found him docile and kind in the stall, though "up and coming" the moment a piece of harness was laid upon his back. When he started for any point the driver knew he was going to get there. Yet, in repose, the horse was always one of the most unimposing, depleted looking creatures in the stables and this characteristic, together with the sudden transformation in him when the leather trappings were brought in and his everlasting endurance, won for him the affectionate title of "The Rat." Mr. Gallagher is amply justified in his obituary quotation from Shakespeare, "We never shall see his like again."

MONROE IS SHORT; STOPS STREET WORK

Bonds to be issued for $20,000 Next Week—Saloon Open on Primary Day.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Monroe, Wis., Sept. 4.—The city of Monroe is so short of funds that the street work under way and contemplated has been abandoned. The shortage of funds has been caused by the law estimate made by the city council last year for the state and county tax and by the improvements made at the city water works and the necessity of a cement reservoir at the Jordan Milk Condensing plant. The city council will authorize a bond issue for $20,000 at an extra council meeting next Tuesday night to meet the deficit in the city's treasury and to provide for the necessary improvements to be made at the water plant and on the sewage system.

The city officials have been greatly embarrassed by their failure to close the saloons here on primary election day, the existence of law providing for the closing of saloons having been discovered only late primary day. The officials looked for the law on the closing of saloons in the general charter recently granted by the state to the city but the amendment in the election laws had been passed since the charter was granted.

Dr. C. H. Lemon, who ran down and killed a peddler with his auto on the streets of Milwaukee Wednesday night, was formerly an Episcopal rector in Monroe. He left here eighteen years ago to study medicine at Rush in order to enter missionary work. He quit being a missionary and entered the practice of surgery in Milwaukee, where he has become prominent in professional circles.

Mrs. John Gettings of this city has raised a second crop of strawberries this year, the second yield being equally as large and good as the first. The double crop in one year is very rare in this part of the country. Seventy horses have been entered for the races at the Green county fair to be held here next week. The entry list has been closed and the spectators are considered as good a lot as has ever been brought to this city.

The official primary election returns were canvassed at the courthouse here today by County Clerk L. E. Stauffer, Register of Deeds P. E. Carson and Member of County Board F. W. Truhenbrod.

The republican county ticket nominated at the primaries is as follows: Member of assembly, A. B. Comstock of Albany; county clerk, John W. Stewart, York township; treasurer, George E. Thorp of Monroe; sheriff, Henry L. Hall of Monroe; clerk of circuit court, Thomas Luchshager of Monroe; district attorney, W. H. McGrath of Monroe; register of deeds, Frank E. Corson of Monroe.

Misses Letha Durst and Edith Isley and Christian Isley of Monroe, Miss Grace Miller of Joda and Miss Dora Laha of Broadhead will attend Lawrence university at Appleton this year.

The show at Koshkonong Tuesday evening brought out quite a large crowd and all seemed well pleased with the entertainment.

Leo Kunkle of this place and Miss Anna Fiedler of Fulton were quietly married Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents. The happy pair will begin housekeeping right away at the groom's farm one mile west of Koshkonong. The house has been tastefully furnished and they have many friends in this vicinity who wish them a long and prosperous life together.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebbie Starke of Milton have the best wishes of their many friends of this place.

Scotch Superstition.

Under no circumstances on the northeast coast of Scotland will a fisherman at sea mention certain objects on land, such as "minister," "kirk," "swine," "dog," etc., and the line will surely be lost if a pig is seen while hauling it. As on the land, chickens must not be counted until they are hatched, so at sea fish must not be counted until they are all caught.

GERMANY'S NOTE VEXES ENGLAND

TRYING TO STEAL A MARCH IN THE MOROCCO MATTER.

OTHER NATIONS TO UNITE

Pledges Which Great Britain and France Will Demand from Mulu Hadid Before They Recognize Him.

London, Sept. 4.—It is learned that the British government is holding aloof from Mulu Hadid, the new sultan of Morocco, for the present, but that it proposed to recognize him in due time. British officialdom is irritated by the course adopted by Germany, which it regards as an attempt to gain influence over and the good will of Mulu Hadid by stealing a march on the other powers.

Consultations are now going on between Great Britain, France, and Spain, and there is no doubt but that Great Britain and France will act together and probably insist that Mulu Hadid give promises to carry out the obligations of Morocco to the powers before they recognize him.

Demands on Mulu Hadid.

Paris, Sept. 4.—The Associated Press is able to give an outline of the guarantees which France and Spain will insist upon from Mulu Hadid. The first is the acceptance of the stipulations of the Algeiras act. Second, the acceptance of all the treaties and conventions previously entered into by Morocco, and third, the acceptance of all concessions, privileges and settlements of whatever character signed since the Algeiras act, or in virtue thereof.

A special dispatch says that Abd-el-Aziz has received a message from H. Toulon announcing his victory over the forces of Mulu Hadid and his subsequent occupation of Morocco City. As a consequence, Abd-el-Aziz has abandoned his idea of relinquishing the struggle.

German Officials Surprised.
Berlin, Sept. 4.—The action of Germany concerning Morocco, it is explained, is limited to the suggestion to the signatories of the Algeiras act that the time has arrived to recognize Mulu Hadid as sultan of Morocco. Official wonderment is expressed at the agitation of the French and English newspapers over the occurrence. They act as though Germany had done something outside her privileges instead of something that one of the signatory powers must do if the Moroccan situation is to be cleared up.

Saul and Jonathan Slain in Battle.

1 Sam. 31.

Golden Text.—Prepare to meet thy God. Amos 4:12.

What is the preparation necessary in order to meet God with confidence and in peace?

Verse 1.—Were the Israelites defeated because the Philistines had the better army, or was it because God was against Israel at this time?

—Why was God against Israel at this time?

May we ever expect to win, in any thing, if God is against us, and if not how do you account for the apparent success of some bad men?

Verse 2.—Why did God permit the lovely Jonathan to be slain?

Is it often in these days, that the innocent have to suffer with the guilty? Give some examples.

How do you justify God in permitting the innocent to suffer with the guilty?

Verse 3.—If Saul had been true to God would this defeat have happened?

Does God often use the ungodly as instruments with which to chastise his children?

Verse 4.—Was the death of Saul determined by God to take place at this battle? See 1 Sam. xxviii: 19.

Does the Lord know how, when and where, each one of us will die?

Granting the freedom if the will and that acts are contingent and necessary, how can God know what a free agent will do?

Is Saul to be blamed for wanting his servant to stay him, or for finally killing himself?

Verse 5.—Under the most providential circumstances what can he do for or against suicide?

Verse 6.—In the long run is it possible that, in any instance, sin can result in final happiness, and if an act which the world and the church label sinful, really results in all round happiness, was that act properly labeled?

(This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 7.—What reason is there to believe that the wrong doing of one person, sometimes results in the ruin of a family, or a community, or of a nation?

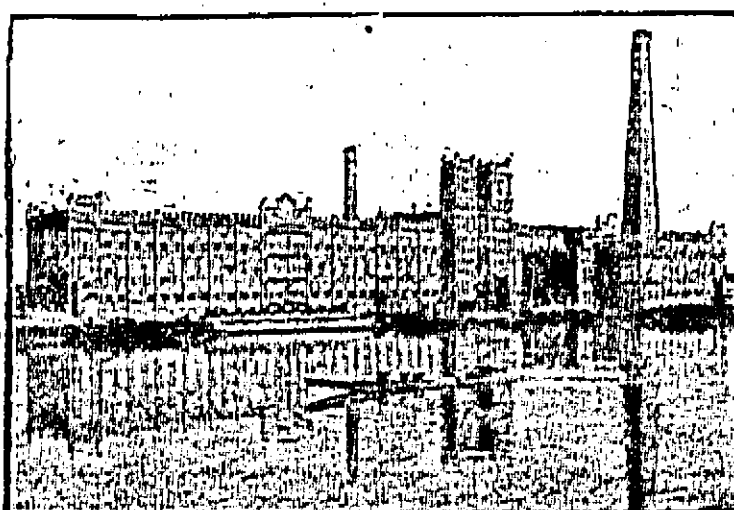

Verse 8.—In what respects is modern warfare conducted in a more humane way than ancient warfare?

Is there any sense, or humanity, in modern warfare in killing and maiming all you can in battle, and then picking up all that are not actually dead, and with tenderness and at great expense nursing them back to health?

Verse 9.—What had Saul done for the nation, that the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead remembered him with gratitude?

Is there any danger that a good man may live to disgrace himself and the cause of God?

Lesson for Sunday, Sept. 13th, 1908.—David Made King Over Jibah and Israel.—11. 2 Sam. 1:1-7; v:1-5.

ONE OF THE COTTON MILLS IN AUGUSTA, GEORGIA, WHICH WAS DAMAGED TO THE EXTENT OF OVER $100,000, AND IN WHICH OVER 1,000 MEN WERE EMPLOYED.

Atlanta, Ga.—The floods are now receding along the Savannah river, but it will be months before the damage caused by the 10 feet of water which covered Augusta and other river cities can be repaired. It is estimated that in Augusta alone the property loss will approximate $1,000,000.

Augusta relies upon her cotton mills and other manufacturing enterprises for her commercial life and with these closed down, as will be necessitated for several months, a vast portion of her community will be out of employment. Bridges have been washed away, transportation tied up and all together the city is in a most deplorable plight. The iron nerve and commercial backbone which built up San Francisco will do the same thing for Augusta and neighboring towns. Other Georgia cities have been affected by the flood to an estimated damage of approximately another million, while the loss in South Carolina is estimated at $2,500,000. When you sweep out $3,500,000 worth of property in a small section of any community, the damage is enormous.

KETCHEL

A COMPARISON OF KETCHELL AND BURNS.

DR. LAGORIO.

Chicago, Ill.—After a lifetime's study of the treatment of hydrophobia, Dr. Antonio Lagorio, the eminent expert, is himself a victim of the deadly virus. He is afflicted with the virus of the most dangerous of hydrophobia culture. All the skill and knowledge he has gained in his battles for the lives of others he is now employing in a desperate effort to save his own life. The inoculation was the result of an accident which he suffered while experimenting on the virus of a rabbit that had suffered for eight days with violent rabies. A piece of the animal's skullbone, broken in such shape that it tapered to a needle point, entered the middle finger of his right hand, puncturing the skin and protruding well into the flesh.

Dr. Lagorio was conducting a clinic in the operating room of his hydrophobia study at 228 Dearborn avenue, when the mishap which may cost him his life occurred. He had cut the skull and held it aloft as he discussed the case.

"The skullbone of an animal that has died of hydrophobia swarms with millions of hydrophobia germs," he was saying, and at this point he broke the skull in half for the purpose of making a microscope demonstration of this fact. "If you will step forward to the table, gentlemen," he began. And as the students crowded toward the piece of bone to the floor. His face turned pale and his body shook with emotion. He turned to an assistant and said in quivering voice "The hydrophobia—the antitoxin—quick."

The assembled men, many of them physicians, realized what had happened.

At the present time Dr. Lagorio lives in a state of constant fear not knowing what the result will be. He talks freely of his own case and said today:

"I have more than ordinary hope of success in the treatment this time, because I know that the patient will in this instance follow the instructions of the physicians faithfully and that the treatment was begun without delay."

"If I am wrong, many physicians have given up life in research and there is a consolation in knowing that all that human aid can do has been done. I have saved many from death who were similarly inoculated, and now—now it is 'Physician heal thyself.'"

Seattle, Wash.—The only active opponent to the present senatorial incumbent, Levi Ankeny, who is out for reelection, is Wesley L. Jones. The bitterest of feeling has been aroused between the friends of the two opposing candidates and much mudslinging is indulged in.

On September 8 the voters of Washington will express their choice under the new primary system, and both contestants are positive in their assertions of victory.

Senator Ankeny has had a varied career, almost as varied as that of "Pliny" Corners, the New York political boss. Levi Ankeny's real name is Smith or Schmidt. When a boy he was adopted by Capt. A. P. Ankeny and old Oregon sea captain, and legally came in possession of the name Ankeny. The stalwart sea captain in due course of time, bought his adopted son a pack train, which young Ankeny journeyed to Lovelock, Idaho, where he engaged in merchandising. In Lovelock he acquired sufficient wealth to move to Walla Walla, Wash., then the most considerable town in the state, where he opened a bank.

The senator is a typical example of the early pioneer. He is sociable, democratic, versatile. If an old farmer whose vocabulary was confined to horse trading terms, wandered into Ankeny's bank he speaks his vernacular. On the other hand, in early days, he was thoroughly familiar with one volume of English history and by quoting frequently from its pages left a lasting impression of scholarship on the minds of the farmers. He made a host of friends on every hand, who later proved his greatest political asset.

Mr. Ankeny's opponent, Wesley L. Jones, has served several terms in congress. He is known in Washington as opposed to the big combinations. He is a self-made man and a lawyer by profession. When he first ran for congress his political opponents pictured him as a "cold hoper." His home at North Yakima is unpretentious and democratic. He is a sturdy, unblemished figure and his friends predict a great future for this son of Washington.

HORRIBLE MURDER IN BOSTON.

Man Kills His Actress Wife and Dismembers the Corpse.

Boston, Sept. 4.—The most brutal crime in Greater Boston since the death of Susan Gray, a chorus girl, four years ago, and one much resembling it in its details, was disclosed Thursday night by the discovery of the torso of Mrs. Honora Jordan, an actress aged 25 years, of Somerville, in a trunk in a boarding house at 7 Hancock street on Beacon hill, this city. Later the head and the bones of the limbs were found in the furnace of the Jordan home at Somerville and the scalp, hair and other gruesome remains were taken from the kitchen range of the house.

Chester Jordan, aged 29 years, an actor of Somerville, is held by the police charged with the murder and according to the officers, he made a complete confession of the crime.

According to Jordan's confession he accidentally killed his wife Tuesday night in a quarrel at their home and, becoming desperate over what he had done, took a butcher's knife, razor and shears and cut up the body and placed the torso in a trunk. He then planned to take the steamer Harvard Wednesday night for New York and throw the parts of the body overboard. The fact that the Harvard was held off owing to an accident disarranged his plans and he was obliged to hire a hackman to take the trunk to a Boston boarding house to await a more favorable opportunity.

The discovery of the crime was due to the suspicions of the hackman, who notified the police.

Aaron S. Watkins Notified. Ada, O., Sept. 4.—Before a large audience in Brown auditorium of the Ohio Northern university Thursday night, Prof. Aaron S. Watkins was officially notified of his nomination as but when it comes to a man who has fought the battles of life with an uphill fight it is especially gratifying. John F. Goff is the happiest man in Oklahoma. By a decision of the Michigan supreme court he has just come into the possession of between $50,000 and $75,000 worth of property which was left him by his mother. When Goff was a young man, he started west. The call of the wild appealed to him and for years he has come lost in the wilderness of Oklahoma. It was supposed he was dead. His father, who was a strong spiritualist when he died, left a homestead and timber land valued at $50,000 to the Spiritualist church. Upon his death it was found, according to the ruling of the supreme court, that undue influence had been brought to bear upon him and the money was decided to be paid to his legal heir, John F. Goff. Mr. Goff is a "globe trotter" and a sportsman equal to Roosevelt, making the Rocky mountains his favorite hunting ground, where he has had many narrow escapes.

He has been a railroad man of large experience, being in the service 15 years, being an engineer for five years. He came to Lawton in ragtown days, pitching his tent on the classic Cache. Mr. Goff is a public spirited man who has never tasted intoxicating liquors or tobacco. He is an enthusiastic lodge man, belonging to the Knights of Pythias, the Odd Fellows, Moose, Red Men, Brotherhood of Travelers, and a sportsman equal to Roosevelt, making the Rocky mountains his favorite hunting ground, where he has had many narrow escapes. He is a fine specimen of western manhood of the Roosevelt type, extremely fond of hunting and outdoor life. He is quick and active and a picturesque figure that one never forgets. Having lived in the west among the Indians most of his life, he has imbibed that western trait.

Its Faulty Construction. "I am away up in front," Mrs. Lap-sling was saying, "and yet I couldn't hear half the actors said. I tell you there's something wrong with the acoustic properties of that theater."

Australian Yate Tree. The yate tree of western Australia, growing to a height of 100 feet and a diameter of 2 1/2 to three feet, yields the strongest timber known. Late tests showed an average tensile strength of 21,000 pounds to the square inch, equal to that of cast-iron, and some specimens resisted 17 1/2 tons to the square inch, equal to the tensile strength of wrought-iron.

Rooster as Scarecrow. Fred Small, on his farm in Swanville, Me., has a successful method of scaring crows from his cornfield, having a bantam rooster in a wire cage, with nest attached, and, as everybody knows, the cockerel at once, which keeps the crows from interfering with the corn.

Whistling in English Streets. In England whistling is very common among all classes, and, indeed, it is rare in London to see a butcher or a grocery boy on his daily errands whose lips are not pursed up for the purpose of emitting the whistling notes of the comic song of the hour. So prevalent is the habit that in hotels, and even in clubs, requests are posted up to "refrain from whistling."

The Safest Investment Today is a House--- Build Now

Banks will pay you 3 or 4 per cent. Some mining stocks MIGHT pay you ten in three or four years, but a house WILL be worth at least 20 per cent more in two years and that is pretty good interest on a perfectly safe investment.

This kind of an investment is absolutely sure because lumber prices are bound to go up early this fall.

There has been more building in Janesville this year than for years. The shrewd business men are taking advantage of the low prices in lumber and building material.

We are selling load after load of lumber to people who see it this way. If you intend to build, better look into the matter NOW. We have the finest of northern pine, hardwood flooring, cedar shingles, cedar posts, cement, plaster, roofing, etc. We give prompt deliveries—one piece or a wagon load.

Put Blame in Right Place.

Bachelors are fond of talking about the extravagance of women and giving that as the excuse for their not marrying while they know in their hearts that there are lots of women whom they might marry who are not extravagant, as regards clothes at least. But these women they look upon as dowdies, and don't want them for life partners, which goes to show that it is the extravagance of the bachelor that tempts and makes extravagant women.—Exchange.

Labor Day is a local holiday for the laboring people and it seems only fair that workers should have the benefit of the whole day's rest. Regardless of the other stores, we will close up all day, no half-day business about it, and give our clerks all there is in it. Here's for a good time labor day.

Thoreau's Sensible Answer.

When the forest-haunting hermit Thoreau lay on his deathbed, a Catholic friend called to make inquiry regarding his soul. "Henry," he said, anxiously, "have you made your peace with God?" "John," replied the dying naturalist, in a whisper, "I didn't know that God and myself had quarreled!"

Not Quite the Thing.

Matrimonial Agent—"I have found for you, my friend, a veritable pearl—a wealthy widow of 75." The Count—"I like the pearl, but I'm afraid I shan't care for the shell!"—La Rive.

THEY DISSOLVED.

The six of them had gathered to discuss the future of the American nation. As to whether the Constitution adopted by our forefathers or the scheme of dominion should prevail.

As to whether the "Tree of Liberty" planted by those who fought at Lexington should be uprooted or continue to grow and flourish until its branches covered every state in this glorious Union.

As to whether selfish corporations or a lawfully elected president should dictate the policy of this great republic.

As to whether the plundering politicians should continue to rob and despoil, or whether the time had come for honest men to rise up and free the country from its incubus.

As to whether the era of extravagance and corruption should continue until the country was bankrupt and disgraced in the eyes of all nations, or whether the people should be called upon to halt and return to the simple life of our forefathers.

All felt that the eyes of the country were upon them.

All felt that a grave crisis in the history of the republic had arrived.

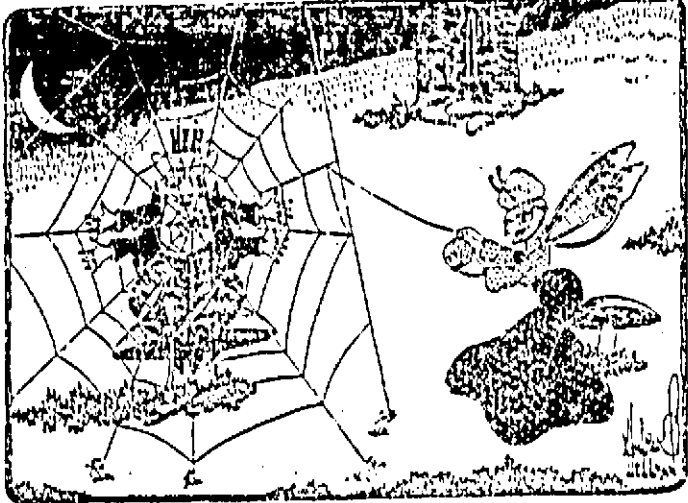

It was for them to do and reap future honors, or pass the fatal problems by and become marked men for all time to come.

The president had just risen in his seat to make a fervid appeal to patriotism, when the telephone in the anteroom rang and a small boy attended it. He listened for a moment and then turned and said to the waiting, trembling assembly:

"It's for some of you fellows. Your wife says the gas bill has just come in and it's 20 cents more than last month."

And then, without a word or a look to or at each other, the six fled silently out and were seen no more.

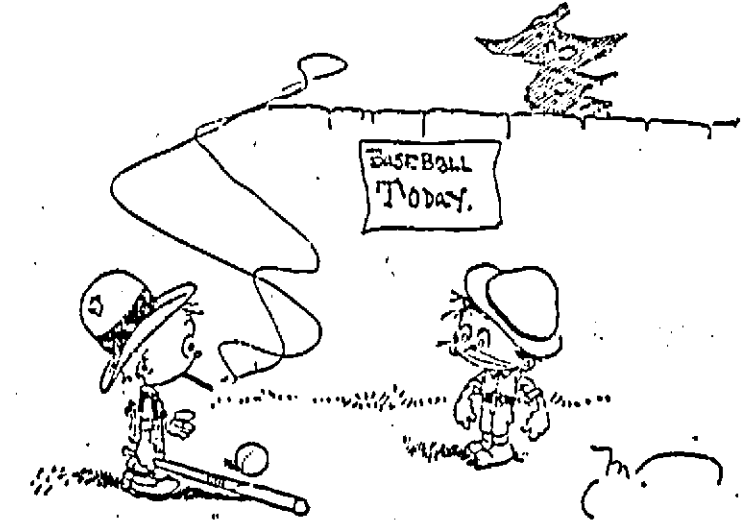

JOE KERR.

TAKING NO CHANCES.

Mr. Hug (angrily)—What do you mean by such treatment, Henrietta?

Mrs. Hug—It's pretty tough on you, William, of course, but I can now go to the mountains knowing you won't be cutting up at Coney Island or playing poker with the boys while I am away.

The Captain—Ray, you gave twenty-seven men bases on balls. Not dy'er think dis is a ball game or a walking match? Well?

EDUCATED THE PEOPLE.

How Merchants of Some Western Towns Held Trade.

There are towns in the western agricultural sections which a few years ago were getting only half the trade that was to be had in the district. Merchants became convinced that they were weak somewhere. They found that they were not advertising rightly and commenced a campaign which has resulted in driving the catalogue houses out of business as far as these towns are concerned.

The newspapers of these places tell of the enterprise of the merchants. The merchants themselves will tell you that they do not fear the mail order houses, as they have educated the people to trade at home. The people who were mail order house patrons will tell you that they know that they can do better by buying at home, that they are convinced that their interests are best protected by the home merchant and that since they have thrown off the mail order habit they are saving more money.

Town Improvers.

The citizen who speaks a good word for his town wherever he goes.

The good looking girl who carries herself well on the street.

The married woman who brings up a Rooseveltian flock of five or six to swell the population.

The merchant who advertises regularly in the home paper and thereby attracts trade to the town.

The clean swept sidewalk in front of the well-dressed show window.

The folks living next to the railroad who keep their back yards neat and thus improve the railroad view.

The farmer who sells his produce in the town and buys things from the town stores instead of sending to mail order houses.

All these are town improvers.

And there are others.

Preserving Split Trees.

There have been many instances in different towns of street trees, long left unpruned, splitting away in large divisions from the trunk proper. Various devices have been used to remedy the trouble, but wire wrapping and banding have, been most common. These are the poorest methods possible to use, says the Los Angeles Times. The parts should be pulled together and a bolt put through having a very large head at one end and an equally large washer at the other. Both head and washer should be countersunk to the wood, so that the bark may grow over head and bar and completely hide the disfigurement. Such a method is safest and best.

Twice Told Tales.

"Hinks, of all young fathers, is the one I most shun when he begins tales of his offspring's remarkable sayings." "Why so?" "Because Hinks' offspring are twins."

FOUND MR. BRYAN STRONG ON COAST

PARKER SAYS SENTIMENT FOR DEMOCRACY IS GAINING.

HUGHES TEST IS PLANNED

Name to Be Printed on New York
City Ticket in Nine Assembly Districts—Taft on Vermont.

New York, Sept. 4.—Former Judge
Alton H. Parker, who has just returned from a visit to the Pacific coast, where he made several speeches for William J. Bryan, conferred over an hour Thursday night with National Chairman Mack at Democratic national headquarters. Plans for a speaking campaign in the east by Mr. Parker in the interests of the Democratic ticket were discussed.

A report circulated was to the effect that the former Democratic presidential candidate might be nominated for governor of this state. Mr. Parker had nothing to say regarding the report. As to Democratic prospects generally, he said he was surprised at the show of early Democratic strength in the west.

Found Strong Bryan Sentiment.
"I visited Oregon, Washington and Montana," said Mr. Parker, "and everywhere there was a surprising growth of sentiment for the Democratic ticket."

"I talked with many Republicans who told me that they were going to support the Democratic ticket. Some gave one reason, some another. I met an Ohio manufacturer who told me that he was seriously considering supporting the ticket on the ground that he wanted to maintain the status quo.
He said that with Bryan in the White House and a Republican senate not-thing could be done, and everything would go on in business just the same."

"I am going to make several speeches in the east for the party, but the dates and places have not been fixed."

To Test the Hughes Strength.
With the purpose of testing the sentiment in Manhattan for the re-nomination of Gov. Hughes, it was announced Thursday night at the headquarters of the Republican county committee that at the Republican primaries next Tuesday Gov. Hughes' name would be printed on the city ticket in nine assembly districts.

Republican leaders in the county stated that they would regard the result of the primaries as morally binding upon them as to their attitude in the state convention.

Replying to criticisms of the plan, Herbert Parsons, chairman of the county committee, said:

"There is no fairness in the criticism that the enrollment is not representative of the Republican party.
Under the law the enrolled voters, whether 10,000 or 100,000, constitute the party. That is the party to which Gov. Hughes has appealed. A supplemental enrollment would not help
Gov. Hughes or the Republican party."

Taft on Vermont Election.
Middlebury, Vt., Sept. 4.—
Comment, indicating that the Republican situation generally might have been improved if the Vermont majority had been less, was made Thursday by Judge Taft.

"The returns," he said, "are very satisfactory. In round numbers the majority is 30,000, which is nearly what it was in 1904 and equal to what it was in 1900. It is an indication that there is no undercurrent against the Republican party and there is no trend toward such a radical change in the opinion of the electorate as is essential to Democratic success in November. It would perhaps have been better, from the standpoint of the party managers, if the majority had been less, in order that the danger of overconfidence might be lessened among the Republicans. The vote in Vermont is much more significant, as one cast under normal conditions, than will be the vote in Maine next week, because it is understood that the peculiar local situation there this year prevents a reduced Republican majority there having national bearing."

James R. Garfield and Mrs. Garfield reached here Thursday. After a conference it was announced that Secretary Garfield would put in four days on the stump in Maine.

Debs Attacks Speaker Cannon.
St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 4.—Eugene V.
Debs, candidate for president on the Socialist ticket, with his party was in St. Joseph Thursday afternoon and spoke to about 1,000 people from the "Red Special." The party left for Omaha about 2:30 o'clock.

Debs Arraigned Speaker Cannon of the house of representatives in severe terms. He said "Uncle Joe" is worth $2,000,000 to-day and he didn't have a dollar when he entered congress.

WARNER SEEMS TO BE IN LEAD.

Official Count May Be Needed to Settle Michigan Contest.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 4.—While not conceding the renomination of Gov.
Fred M. Warner in last Tuesday's primary election, the Free Press Thursday night completed a new tabulation of the election returns which, with 17 precincts missing, gives Warner a lead of 318 over Auditor General J. B.
Bradley, who opposed Gov. Warner for the Republican nomination and who was supported by the Free Press. The latest Free Press tabulation gives Warner 87,535, Bradley 82,717.

It is now thought that nothing short of the official canvass can determine the nomination and there is talk of recounts and of litigation to ensue before either side concedes the nomination to the other. The Detroit News, which supported Warner, made up a tabulation which gives Warner a lead of 1,013 over Bradley.

All is Vanity.

Vanity is so anchored in the heart of man that a soldier, a camp-follower, a cook, a porter, makes his boasts and is for having his admirers; even philosophers wish for them. Those who write against it, yet desire the glory of having written well; those who read, desire the glory of having read; I who write this have this desire, and perhaps those who will read it.—Pascal.

COL. NEVIUS IS ELECTED

NEW JERSEY MAN MADE CHIEF OF THE GRAND ARMY.

Only One Ballot Necessary—Salt Lake City May Get the Next National Encampment.

Toledo, O., Sept. 4.—Col. Henry M.
Nevius of Red Bank, N. J., was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic Thursday. The election occurred on the first ballot, which gave Mr. Nevius 454 votes compared with 254 for former Gov. Van Sant of Minnesota, and 90 for L. T.
Dickson of Illinois. On motion of the former Minnesota executive the nomination of the New Jersey man was made unanimous.

Other officers were chosen as follows: Senior vice-commander, J. Kent Hamilton of Ohio; Junior vice-commander, C. C. Royce of California; chaplain-in-chief, J. F. Spence of Tennessee; surgeon-in-chief, G. Lane Tan-nahl of Maryland.

The selection of a city for the next encampment will be made some time Friday, and although the weight of sentiment so far expressed, is in favor of Salt Lake City, this city is certain to meet with opposition. It is stated that stories that Atlanta was after the encampment this year had been set at rest by unauthorized persons, but the retiring vice-commander declared that when Atlanta's new auditorium was completed next year his city would make a decided bid for the honor of entertaining the veterans.

Col. Nevius, a native of New Jersey, was studying law with the late Russell A. Alger of Michigan when the war broke out, and enlisted from the state with the Lincoln cavalry. He rose to a commission with the Seventh Michigan and the 25th New York cavalry regiments, and lost an arm in front of Fort Stevens when the union army was engaged with Gen. Early.
Col. Nevius, besides being twice department commander of New Jersey, has been a judge and president of the New Jersey state senate.

The Woman's Relief Corps elected
Mrs. W. L. Gilman of Roxbury, Mass., president.

COWARDLY OFFICERS SCORED.

Final Report of Springfield Grand Jury
on the Race Riots.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 4.—The special grand jury called to probe the recent race war adjourned Thursday night after returning 17 more indictments. This makes a total of 117 during the session. Among the indictments returned Thursday were those against four Springfield policemen, Oscar Dahlkamp, Joseph Fernandez,
George H. Olinman and George W.
Dawson. They are indicted for alleged failure to suppress the riot when detalled for that duty.

Sherrif Warner, Chief of Police Wilbur Morris, Capt. Charles Walsh of troop D, Springfield, and other officers are commended by the grand jury.

The report condemns alleged "cowards" among the officers, and says:
"After the most diligent inquiry we could find no unmeasured terms the cowardly, contemptuous action of those members of the police force who, having taken the oath of office, failed to do their duty."

HANDSOME CARRIAGE COSTUME.

Here we have a truly beautiful costume made from the ever popular and serviceable pongee in natural tone. It is made elaborate with bands of heavy cerise Russian lace which run from shoulders to foot of skirt. There is a square yoke of transverse tucking bordered with Persian embroidered hands in the lovely new shade of blue, and just below yoke there is an oblong buckle of jade. Worn with this is a brown straw hat of the Charlotte Corday type trimmed with cerise and blue ribbon.

ONE OF THE ADVANCE GUARS.

A girl just back from Paris has brought with her some stunning fall things among which is a hat built up for above model. It is black satin with sharp upturned brim and simply trimmed with high spreading white wings. The effect is stunning.

Sandwiches are always in order. Here's something of so fine a flavor that it will appeal to the most discriminating palate—Frank's Liver Sausage. Epicures pronounce it more delicate than the Paté de Foies Gras of the French.

It can be conveniently served either in sandwiches, or sliced thin for a cold dish. A happy thought for the picnic basket!

Remember to ask for Frank's Liver Sausage. It is one of 36 varieties of sausage made in a kitchen that fairly glitters with it, so clean. The choicest materials and purely vegetable condiments are combined in these sausages—"Made as only Frank knows how."

The BRASS BOWL

"How could you help it? Who'd expect a hulking brute like myself to be ticklish?"

"You are awfully good," she countered more calmly.

"Don't say that. I'm a clumsy lout. But—" He held her gaze inquiringly. "But may I ask—"

"Oh, of course—certainly; I am—was—bound for Greenpoint-on-the-Sound—"

"Ten miles!" he interrupted.

"The corners of her red lips drooped; her brows puckered with dismay. Instinctively she glanced toward the water-bound car.

"What am I to do?" she cried. "Ten miles! . . . I could never walk it, never in the world! You see, I went to town to-day to do a little shopping. As we were coming home the chauffeur was arrested for careless driving. He had bumped a delivery wagon over—it wasn't really his fault. I telephoned home for somebody to bail him out, and my father said he would come in. Then I dined, returned to the police station and waited. Nobody came. I couldn't stay there all night. I phoned to everybody I knew, until my money gave out; no one was in town. At last, in desperation, I started home alone."

Maitland nodded his comprehension. "Your father?" he hinted delicately.

"Judge Wentworth," she explained, hastily. "We've taken the Grover place at Greenpoint for the season."

"I see"—thoughtfully. And this was the girl who he had believed had been in his room that evening, in his absence! Oh, clearly, that was impossible. Her tone rang with truth.

She interrupted his train of thought with a cry of despair. "What will they think?"

"I dare say," he ventured hopefully. "I could hire a team at some farm house—"

"But the delay! It's so late already!"

Undenially late; one o'clock at the earliest. A thought longer Maitland hung in lack of purpose, then without a word of explanation turned and again began to wade out.

"What do you mean to do?" she cried, surprised.

"See what's the trouble," he called back. "I know a bit about motors. Perhaps—"

"Then—but why—"

She stopped; and Maitland forbore to encourage her to round out her question. It was no difficult matter to supply the missing words. Why had he not thought of investigating the motor before insisting that he must carry her ashore?

The humiliating conviction forced itself upon him that he was not skirting to grace; advantage in this adventure. Distinctly a humiliating sensation to one who ordinarily was by way of having a fine conceit of himself. It requires a certain amount of egotism to enable one to play the exquisite to one's personal satisfaction; Maitland had enjoyed the possession of that certain amount; therefore his approval of self had been passably entire. Now—he could not deny—the boat had shown up through the polish of the beam.

Intolerable! thought "Cad!" exclaimed Maitland, bitterly. This all was due to hasty jumping at conclusions; if he had not chosen to believe a young and charming girl identical with an—adventuress, this thing had not happened and he had still retained his own good will. For one little moment he despised himself heartily—one little moment of clear insight into self was his. And forthwith he began to meditate apologies, formulating phrases designed to prove adequate without sounding exaggerated and insincere.

By this time he had reached the car, and through sheer blundering luck—at once stumbled upon the seat of trouble—a clogged valve in the carburetor. No serious matter; with the assistance of a repair kit more than commonly complete, he had the valve clear in a jiffy.

News of this triumph he shouted to the girl, receiving in reply an "Oh, thank you!" so fervently grateful that he felt more guilty than ever.

Ruminating unhappily on the end of contemplated amusement, he waded round the car, satisfying himself that there was nothing else out of gear; and apprehensively cranked up. Whereupon the motor began to hum contentedly; all was well. Flushed with this success, Maitland climbed aboard and opened the throttle a trifle. The car moved. And then, with a swish, a gurgle, and a watery whoosh! it surged forward, up, out of the river, gallantly up the slope.

At the top the amateur chauffeur shut down the throttle and jumped out, turning to face the girl. She was by the step almost before he could offer a hand to help her in, and as she paused to render him his due meed of thanks, it became evident that she harbored little if any resentment; eyes shining, face aglow with gratitude, she dropped him a droll but graceful courtesy.

"You are too good!" she declared with spirit. "How can I thank you?"

"You might," he suggested, looking down into her face from his superior height, "give me a bit of a lift—just a couple of miles up the road. Though," he supplemented eagerly, "if you'd really prefer, I should be only too happy to drive the car home for you!"

"Two miles, did you say?"

He fancied something odd in her tone; besides, the question was superfluous. His eyes informed with puzzlement, he replied: "Why, you—that much, more or less. I live—"

"Of course," she put in quickly, "I'll give you the lift—only too glad. But as for your taking me home at this hour, I can't hear of that."

"But—"

"Besides, what would people say?" she countered, obstinately. "Oh, no," she decided; and he felt that from this decision there would be no appeal; "I couldn't think of interfering with your . . . arrangements."

Her eyes held his for a single instant, instinct with mischief, gleaming with bewildering light from out a face schooled to gravity. Maitland experienced a sensation of having grasped after and missed a subtlety of allusion; his wife, keen as they were, recalled, baffled by her finesse. And the more he divined that she was playing with him, as an experienced swordsman might play with an impudent novice, the denser his confusion grew.

"But I have no arrangements—" he stammered.

"Don't!" she insisted—as much as to say that he was fabricating; and she knew it! "We must hurry, you know, because . . . There, I've dropped my handkerchief! By the tree, there. Do you mind—"

"Of course not." He set off swiftly toward the point indicated, but on reaching it cast about vainly for anything in the nature of a handkerchief. In the midst of which futile quest a change of tempo in the motor's impatient drumming surprised him.

Startled, he looked up. Too late; the girl was in the seat, the car in motion—already some yards from the point at which he had left it. Dismayed, he strode forward, raising his voice in porturbed expostulation.

"But I say—!"

Over the rear of the seat a gray garment was waved at him, as tantamounting to the mocking laugh that came to his ears.

He paused, thunderstruck, appalled by this monstrously of ingratitude.

The machine gathered impetus, drawing swiftly away. Yet in the stillness the farewell of the gray girl came to him very clearly.

"Good-by!" with a laugh. "Thank you and good-by—Handsome Dan!"

CHAPTER III.

"Handsome Dan."

Standing in the middle of the road, watching the dust cloud that trailed the fast disappearing motor car, Mr. Maitland cut a figure sufficiently forlorn and disconsolate to have distilled pity from the least sympathetic heart.

His hands were thrust stiffly at full arm's length into his trousers pockets; a rumpled silk hat was set awry on the back of his head; his shirt bosom was sadly crumpled; above the knees, to a casual glance, he presented the appearance of a man carefully attired in evening dress; below, his legs were sodden and muddled, his shoes of patent leather, twin wrecks. Alas for jaunty and elegance, slack for ease and aplomb!

"Tripped," observed Maitland, casually, and protruded his lower lip, thus adding to the length of a countenance naturally long. "Outwitted by a chit of a girl! Dammit!"

But this was crude melodrama, ranting which, he strove to smother a sorry failure.

"Handsome Dan," quoted he; and cooking his head to one side eyed the road inquiringly. "Where in thunder d'you suppose she got hold of that name?"

Bestowed upon him in callow college days, it had stuck burr-like for many a weary year. Of late, however, its use had lapsed among his acquaintances; he had begun to congratulate himself upon having lived it down. And now it was resurrected, flung at him in sincerest mockery by a woman whom, to his knowledge, he had never before laid eyes upon. Odious appellation, hateful invention of an ingenious enemy!

"Handsome Dan!" She must have known me all the time—all the time I was making an exhibition of myself. . . . "Wentworth?" I know no one of that name. Who the dickens can she be?"

If it had not been contrary to his code of ethics, he would gladly have raved, gnashed his teeth, footed the dance of rage with his shadow. Indeed, his restraint was admirable, the circumstances considered. He did nothing whatever but stand still for a matter of five minutes, vainly racking his memory for a clue to the identity of "Miss Wentworth."

At length he gave it up in despair and abstractedly felt for his watch fob. Which wasn't there. Neither, investigation developed, was the watch. At which crowning stroke of misfortune—the timepiece must have slipped from his pocket into the water while he was tinkering with that infamous carburetor—Maitland turned eloquently red in the face.

"The price," he meditated aloud, with an effort to resume his pose, "is a high one to pay for a wave of a gray glove and the echo of a pretty laugh."

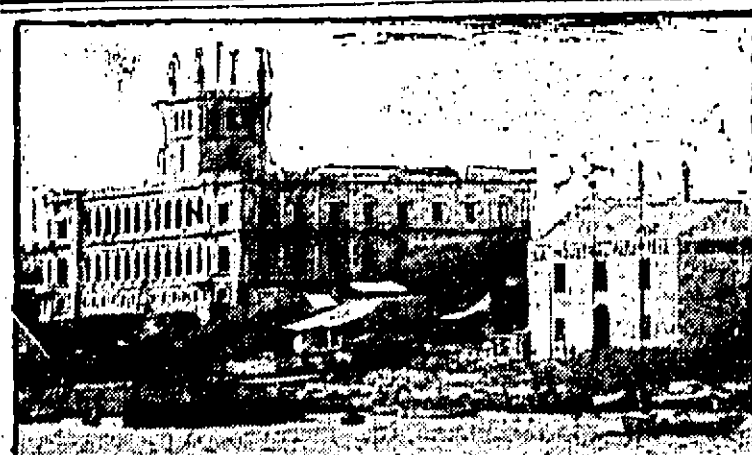

With which final fling at Fortune he set off again for Maitland Manor, trudging heavily but at a round pace through the dust that soon settled upon the damp cloth of his trousers legs and completed their ruin. But Maitland was beyond being disturbed by such trifles. A wounded vanity engaged his solicitude to the exclusion of all other interests.

At the end of 45 minutes he had covered the remaining distance between Greenfield station and Maitland Manor. For five minutes more he strode wearily over the side path by the box hedge which adjoins his ancestral acres from the public highway. At length, with an exclamation, he paused at the first opening in the living barrier; a wide entrance from which a blue-stone carriage drive wound away to the house, invisible in the waning light, situate in the shelter of the grove of trees that studded the lawn.

"Gasoline! Urri!" said Maitland, shuddering and shivering with the combination of a nauseous odor and the night's coolness—the latter by now making itself as unpleasantly prominent as the former.

Though he hated the smell with all his heart, manfully inconsistent he raised his head, sniffing the air for further evidence, and got his reward in a sickening qual.

"Rank leaked," he commented with brevity. "Quart of the stuff must have trickled out right here. Ugh! If it goes on at this rate, there'll be another breakdown before she gets home."

"Serve her right, too!" he growled, vindictive.

But for all his indignation he acknowledged a sneaking wish that he might be at hand again, in such event, a second time to give gratuitous service to his gray lady.

Analyzing this frame of mind (not without surprise and some disdain of him who weakly entertained it) he crossed the drive and struck in over the lawn, shaping his course direct for the front entrance of the house.

By odd reckoning the hour was two, or something later; and a chill was stealing in upon the land, wafted gently southward from Long Island sound. All the world beside himself seemed to slumber, breathless, inanimate. Wealth-like, gray shreds of mist drifted between the serried boles of trees, or, rising, veiled the moon's wan and pallid face, that now was low upon the horizon. The silent rivalry long and velvet-black shadows skulked across the ample borders of dew-drenched grass. Somewhere a bird stirred on its unseen perch, chirping sleepily; and in the rap silence the inconsiderable interruption broke with startling stress.

In time—not long—the house lifted into view; a squat, rambling block of home-grown architecture with little to recommend it save its keen associations and its comfort. At the edge of the woods the lord and master paused indefinitely, with little purpose, surveying idly the pale, columned facade, and wondering whether or not his entrance at that ungodly hour would rouse the staff of house servants. If it did not—he contemplated with mild amusement the prospect of their surprise when, morning come, they should find the owner in occupation.

"Handsome Dan was right," he mused, "any—"

The syllables died upon his lips; his gaze became fixed; his heart thumped wildly for an instant, then rested still; and instinctively he held his breath, slipping to the edge of the veranda, thither to command a view of the library windows.

These opened from ceiling to floor and should by right have presented to his vision a blank expanse of dark glass. But, oddly enough, even while thinking of his lawyer's warning, he had fancied. . . . "Ah!" said Maitland, softly.

A disk of white light, perhaps a foot or 18 inches in diameter, had flitted swiftly across the glass and vanished. "Ah, ah! The devil, the devil!" murmured the young man, unconsciously. (To be continued.)

CHINESE SIGN IN CHICAGO DESIGNATING GAMBLING RESORTS.

Chicago.—The proprietors of Chicago gambling resorts have become very bold in the announcements to the public of their gambling places. The sign shown above, which should be read from the bottom up, as all Chinese signs, states, in a free translation, "Gambling—Everybody Has Permission to Come In."

These people have been relying upon the lack of knowledge on the part of city officials to read Chinese, and it seems to have been more or less effective. Over 30 of these signs were found in the downtown district.
